TRUMAN GETS GOING ON BIG PILE OF WORK

PRESIDENT READY FOR MEETING OF BIG FIVE

BY TOM REEDY

Washington, Apr. 17 (AP)—In an action-packed day, President Truman tackled vast unsettled problems of war and peace today, and made known that he would be glad to see other leaders of the "big five" powers soon.

He got to work at 8:30 a. m. and promptly the White House began humming with developments. Among other things, the first president:

1. Told reporters at his first news conference that he would be very happy to meet Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Stalin, and President Chiang Kai-shek, although he has not initiated a meeting. He also would be glad to see General Charles de Gaulle, if the French leader cared to arrange such a conference.

2. Signed the one-year extension of lend-lease, which he termed a "mighty instrument for victory."

3. Nominated Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., and Courtney H. Hodges to be full generals; nine major generals to be lieutenant generals.

4. Appointed John W. Snyder, St. Louis banker, as federal loan administrator.

5. Disclosed that he had no plans to lift the ban on horse racing, the midnight curfew or the brownout, at least until V-E day.

6. Backed up the Bretton Woods pact for an international bank and stabilization fund, and the Roosevelt reciprocal trade pact program.

7. Conferred with the U. S. delegation to the United Nations conference on world organization, and said he would back it to the limit.

8. Told the nation's armed forces over the radio that they had lost an old friend in the death of Mr. Roosevelt but that the nation would not falter in the cause which he claimed. Mr. Truman pledged to carry out his duties "in keeping with our American tradition."

Attendance Sets Record

At one point during the day, the president remarked, "I've got so much work to do I don't know where to turn."

His first news conference as chief executive was a whirlwind, 11-minute affair which set a record for attendance—348 reporters and 50 visitors.

Standing erect and smiling, he joked with the reporters as they came into the oval room where Mr. Roosevelt had held so many of his 998 interviews with press and radio.

He joshed that his time for starting work today, after strolling from the Blair house across the street, was a little late for him and that the reporters hadn't seen anything yet.

He fired back his answers as one would expect from an ex-officer and made known his attitude toward the curfew, the brownout, Bretton Woods and a host of other subjects, foreign and domestic.

He said he expects Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov to call on him en route to the San Francisco conference. While the president will not go to San Francisco he will have a message of welcome. He will back the U. S. delegation from his desk where, he said, he belongs.

Willow Run Winds Up Production Of B-24s; Ford May Buy Plant

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit, April 17 (AP)—The big Ford-operated Willow Run bomber plant will wind up its production of giant four-engined B-24 warplanes and probably its participation in the war effort not later than August.

Col. Nelson S. Talbot, commanding officer, Central District, Air Technical Service Command, announced plans to terminate Liberator bomber production in a statement issued at the 67-acre plant today. It had been decided upon, he said, because of the "unusually rapid collapse of the German Luftwaffe," and the need in the Pacific theater of "heavier, faster bombers such as the B-29."

Col. Talbot said that the Army Air Forces is studying the possibility of utilizing the plant facilities for production of other AAF items. However, it has been frequently stated that the big plant designed for volume production of the B-24 could not be adapted to other plane output excepting at great expense. One recent change in the B-24 design is said to have cost tens of millions of dollars in equipment costs alone.

Directly affected by the curtailment of production schedules ordered by the Army Air Forces to become effective immediately are 21,731 workers at Willow Run and 6,000 others employed in other Ford plants supplying parts and sub-assemblies to the bomber plant. An Army Air Forces representative said approximately 70,000 other workers in various parts of the country have been engaged in producing parts for the bombers and would be affected by the cutback in the contract.

Representatives of the War Manpower Commission said that most of the bomber plant workers to be released could be absorbed in the Detroit area, where they had jobs there approximately 16,000 job openings, including 4,000 with a priority rating.

The big bomber plant, said to have cost in excess of $100,000,000 for buildings and equipment began production of Liberators late in 1942. It reached its high point of production in March, 1944, when it turned out 462 planes. Last month it completed its 8,000th plane. How many remain to be made under the present contract was not disclosed by the Army Air Forces but it was indicated that it would be decided by the Ford management in consultation with the AAF whether the remainder shall be completed quickly or spread out over the period until August.

While the plant and equipment are the property of the Defense Plant Corporation, Henry Ford has indicated that he hopes to purchase it for postwar operation and devote it to the production of tractors and other kinds of farm tools.

"Farming," Ford said, "is in for the biggest expansion. Virtually everything we need can come from the farm. We have a laboratory at Dearborn working out nothing but finding out more about farm products. The world will need plenty of equipment to take care of this work."

The plant is one of the largest high octane gasoline producing refineries in the country.

"The production stoppage exists because of a barricade which prevents safe access to the plant," Vinson declared.

"This barricade is manned by a group of men dissatisfied with rents in a nearby privately-owned and privately-operated housing development."

Ikkes, as petroleum administrator, was authorized to take possession of and operate the plants and facilities of the corporation in and around Lake Charles.

Naturopath Graft
Funds Unlimited,
Witness Declares

Lansing, April 17 (AP)—Chester B. McDonald of Benton Harbor, former president of the American Naturopathy association, testified in the bribery conspiracy trial of six former legislators today that the association gave its lobbyist, Harry R. Williams, a free hand to pay graft.

McDonald, testifying under a grant of immunity from prosecution, asserted on the witness stand that Williams was elected chairman of a special legislative committee at a meeting in Detroit in July, 1940. There, he said, the association officers made plans to press in the 1941 legislature a bill to legalize the healing art of naturopathy. He said Williams, now a Wheaton, Ill., resident, was given unlimited power to spend the association's money without reporting expenditures to the board of directors, or asking their advice.

State Senate Votes
4-Year Terms For Elective Officials

Lansing, April 17 (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment to give state elective officials four-year terms was approved in the Senate today and went to the House.

Both houses already have approved two previous proposals to extend the terms of legislators and county officials from two to four years.

If the third resolution were approved all three would face the voters at the 1946 general election. Democrats objected to one provision of the amendment which would place the state elections midway between presidential elections. They were defeated in a move to hold state elections at the same time as the presidential balloting.

TRUCE SPEEDS UP ACTION ON LANSING BILLS

APPROVAL IS GIVEN 7 APPROPRIATION MEASURES

Lansing, April 17 (AP)—The Democratic minority in the House of Representatives made peace with the Republicans today, voting unanimously with the majority to pass and give immediate effect to appropriation bills totaling $31,578,000.

The Democrats had threatened Monday night to use their 33 votes to block appropriation measures unless bills in which they were interested were reported out of committee, but they backed down when Republicans sent back to committee several bills affecting Wayne county.

Rep. Joseph F. Nagel of Detroit, Democratic floor leader, said his group had decided at a caucus to go along on appropriation bills, and that they thought Republican members might then assist them in passing Democrat-sponsored bills.

Money Made Available
One by one as the seven appropriation bills were passed unanimously, the Democrats who had been most outspoken in their criticism of the Republicans Monday rose and moved the bills to be given immediate effect.

If immediate effect were not given, money for state purposes would not be available until 90 days after final adjournment of the legislature, on Sept. 6.

Republicans, accepting the peace offer, advanced to position for a vote a bill modernizing the workmen's compensation act, and the ways and means committee also held a special meeting to release appropriation bills for Elsie hospital and to provide state aid for education of veterans at Wayne University in Detroit. Angry majority members had these bills referred to the committee Monday.

With the House bogged down in a controversy over whether townships or county road commissions should supervise funds for a proposed 10 per cent tax on sales of alcoholic liquor, a vote on the Senate bill in its amended form was delayed until House members could reach a compromise.

Parks Get $500,000
The House taxation committee had provided that revenues from the tax, estimated at between $2,000,000 and $10,000,000 annually, be allocated to cities, villages, counties and townships, with township supervisors having control of the expenditures of their share of the money.

Rep. Alpheus P. Decker, Decker-ville Republican, sought to have county road commissioners control township funds, which would be used primarily for building roads. He said the amendment would be a partial substitute for a Senate bill, now stalled in committee, appropriating $4,000,000 to the county road commissions.

The House passed and sent to the Senate the following appropriation bills: For general government, $6,230,239 for the next fiscal year; for improving existing state parks, $500,000; for the state police and other public safety agencies, $5,088,936; for the agriculture and conservation departments, $2,776,092; for the state department of aeronautics and special divisions of the conservation department, $2,764,147; for state regulatory agencies, $4,454,912, and for the state department of public instruction, $9,763,810.

One Movie Maker
Stops Production
Because Of Strike

Hollywood, April 17 (AP)—The movie strike tonight took its first toll of a producing unit as veteran film director, David O. Selznick, leading independent producer, is a director, stopped production.

Daniel T. O'Shea, president, issued the following statement: "We have been endeavoring to the best of our ability to continue production despite strike conditions. However, it is no longer possible for us to continue and accordingly we are suspending production temporarily."

War Machine Begins
Move Into Pacific

BY ELTON C. FAY
Washington, April 17 (AP)—The United States expects to have its war machine redeployed in the Pacific four months earlier than originally planned.

This speed-up in the war against Japan has been made possible by a general tightening up of plans, including new arrangements for shipping, it was learned today in authoritative quarters.

Actually, redeployment already is under way. Some items of equipment originally destined for the European theater have been sent westward.

New U. S. Landings

San Francisco, April 17 (AP)—Tokyo radio claimed tonight American forces had landed on tiny Menna Island, about four miles south of Yank-invaded Ie Island off west central Okinawa, to obtain a new airfield. The broadcast was picked up by the Federal Communications Commission.

Jury Decides Actor Is Father Of Baby Born To Joan Berry

Los Angeles, April 17 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin was adjudged to be the father of Joan Berry's baby by a jury in Superior court today.

The jury of 11 women and one man brought in the verdict at 5:20 p. m., Eastern War Time, after deliberating the bitterly contested case for 2 hours and 55 minutes.

The courtroom was only one-third filled when the verdict, climax of the second hearing in the suit, was read.

Last January the first case ended in a mistrial when the jury was unable to decide whether the comedian was the father of the baby, Carol Ann, now 18 months old.

Women jurors in the first trial were in the majority in sympathy with Chaplin's denial that he was the father of the child.

There was a light burst of applause as the verdict was announced. The vote, as disclosed by a poll taken by the court, was 11 to 1, reversing the 7-5 verdict in Chaplin's favor in the first trial. A vote of 9 to 3 would have been sufficient to decide the civil case.

The lone dissenting juror in today's vote was Mrs. Mary H. James.

Armory At Detroit Valued At $300,000 Destroyed By Fire

Detroit, Apr. 17 (AP)—The Detroit Armory was destroyed today by a five-alarm fire which started in the basement of the building and, fanned by a 30-mile-an-hour wind, spread through to the roof within half an hour.

The armory, located at Brush and Larned streets, was valued at $300,000. It had been used for the last fifty years as headquarters for city units of the Michigan National Guard.

Col. O. J. Cleary, commanding officer of the Michigan State troops, said that uniforms, shotguns, shells, and other equipment for 400 men quartered in the armory, were lost in the fire.

Eight persons who were in the building when the blaze broke out escaped uninjured, but eight firemen were overcome by smoke and seven others suffered injuries.

All available fire department equipment was rushed to the scene, but the solid construction of the building and the strong winds handicapped firemen. Acetylene torches were used to cut through the bars on the windows to permit the use of fire hoses.

New York Telephone Strike Is Averted

New York, April 17 (AP)—Threat of a strike of New York Telephone company and American Telephone and Telegraph employees here was averted at least temporarily here late today.

Executive boards of the Traffic Employees association and the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, claiming membership of 12,000 and 6,000 respectively, made the announcement after they had been advised by the army, navy and the War Labor Board not to strike. The unions are independent organizations.

Another meeting will be held tomorrow. The union executive boards had met to decide whether to ratify a strike vote taken yesterday in protest against a $3 weekly wage increase ordered by the War Labor Board. The telephone operators and their associates wanted $5 and the telephone company and the A. T. and T. had offered $4.

Union leaders, officers of the communications systems and the War Labor Board planned another meeting tonight.

TROOPS REACH BAGUIO; 7,000 ARE SET FREE

JAP HOME ISLANDS BLASTED AGAIN BY B-29s

BY CLYDE BARTEL

Associated Press War Editor
United States 33rd division infantrymen, beating down Japanese resistance, have reached the outskirts of Baguio, Philippine summer capital in mountainous northern Luzon, and rescued 7,000 civilians who fled Nipponese internment.

In fighting in the Ryukyus 325 miles south of Japan, Yanks of the 24th army corps control two-thirds of Ie Island, off the west coast of Okinawa. The Japanese garrison of 1,000 is encircled on Mt. Iegusugu, on the southeast corner of the 10 square mile island.

Puppet Leaders Captured
Japan itself felt the third American Superfortress task force raid in four days, when B-29s hit six big airfields on Kyushu yesterday. American headquarters said a "large" number of the great planes—possibly 150—made the attack. Kyushu is the southernmost of Nippon's home islands and base for air assaults on the Okinawa invasion forces.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the 33rd division reached the limits of Baguio, Japanese stronghold and goal of the Yanks since the fall of Manila, Monday. Approach of the Americans facilitated escape of 7,000 civilians from Baguio.

Most of the rescued were Filipinos, but there also were nationals of the United States, the British empire and other Allied nations, as well as some neutrals and even Germans.

The Americans also captured four members of the Japanese-sponsored Filipino collaborationist government, including Quintin Parades, one-time Philippine delegate to Washington in pre-war days and minister of justice in the puppet cabinet.

Iwo Jima Mopped Up
There was no change in the lines on the southern Okinawa front, while to the northern marine units were meeting small pockets of Japanese resistance.

Nimitz said that mopping operations continued on Iwo Jima, with a total of 22,731 Japanese killed and 624 captured since Feb. 19. D-day, through Saturday. Iwo Jima's airfields are now bases for American fighter planes which have been hitting Japan and protecting B-29 raiders striking Nippon from the Marianas bases.

Chinese forces battling the Japanese in Honan and Hupeh provinces have chalked up victories, notably in the area of Laohokow, former U. S. advanced air base city in northwestern Hupeh. Laohokow, recently taken by the Nipponese, was being bitterly defended by the enemy.

In central Burma British 14th army tanks started a two-way drive on the Yanangyang-Chauk oil fields.

Documents Reveal
Bestiality Of Jap
Soldiers In Manila

Washington, April 17 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur—by document—and Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo in person laid before congress today a story of Japanese bestiality in the destruction of Manila.

Wholesale instances of mass burnings, babies bayoneted, men shot, burned or stabbed, girls and women ravished by mocking, laughing Japanese were given by Romulo and in an official report by General MacArthur made public by the war department. There was accompanying evidence that many of the atrocities were committed under military orders.

Romulo, now resident commissioner for the Philippines, told the house of representatives: "Manila is dead, and Tokyo must die—not in reprisal but as a defense measure necessary to insure Pacific peace."

Small Gains Made
On Italian Front;
7000 Are Captured

Rome, April 17 (AP)—Allied Fifth and Eighth armies, closely supported by terrific air bombardment, made small gains on all sectors today as the Germans, fighting desperately to their northern Italy battle line, fought back with the same old tenacity.

The spring offensive which Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander described as the "last battle for Italy" already has picked up 7,000 German prisoners.

Highway 64 south of Bologna was cut by other American troops at Calvanzano who continued northeastward.

NO FRONT LEFT FOR NAZI ARMY

Reds Drive Into Saxony For Junction With Americans

BY ROMNEY WHEELER
London, Wednesday, April 18 (AP)—The Germans said today Russian forces were driving hard within 18 and 20 miles of Berlin in two sectors while another Soviet force speared into the Nazi southern escape corridor through Saxony.

Moscow maintained silence on the operations along the 150-mile front from the Bohemian border to the Oder estuary, proclaiming in its latest communique liquidation of all the remaining area of the Samland peninsula of East Prussia except the escape port of Pillau. It was announced capture of the important Austrian oil producing center of Zistersdorf, 25 miles northeast of Vienna.

The Nazi high command announced a Soviet jump-off from Neisse river bridgeheads along a 33-mile front from Forst to Rothenburg, headed toward a junction with American forces driving into Saxony from the west. Then the German army clamped a news blackout on place names.

German Commentator Max Krull, discussing Allied "breakthroughs" from the east and west, asserted the "organic structure of the German front has ceased to exist. The terms westfront and eastfront have lost their meaning."

The Neisse river plunge was described by the Nazi transoceanic news agency as one of two prongs, one from Muskau toward Spremberg on the Spree river and another through Niesky, 11 miles northwest of Goerlitz and 48 miles northeast of Dresden.

Discharges Total
70,974 In Michigan

Lansing, April 17 (AP)—The state selective service headquarters, announcing that 2,186 Michigan men have been discharged from the armed services during March, said the total for the year now stands at 8,478 and for the war at 70,974.

Of the total, 58,507 have been discharged from the army, and 12,467 from the navy, marines and coast guard. About one-third of the discharges have been for disability.

The headquarters said March discharges were lower than in the previous months of this year. More than 18,000 of the discharged veterans returned to their pre-war jobs, the announcement said, and about the same number got new jobs.

March discharges by counties included: Kent, 90; Muskegon, 42; Wayne, 1,067.

Linguist Cabbies Lined Up To Help Security Meeting

San Francisco, April 17 (AP)—More than 70 of one company's approximately 1100 cab drivers in San Francisco will be in special demand during the United Nations Security Conference. They are linguists.

The cabbies speak a total of 15 foreign tongues. Officials said, including Czech, Danish, French, Italian, Norwegian, Portuguese, Russian, Slavic, Spanish, Swedish, Swiss, Turkish, Greek, Persian and Assyrian.

Each will wear a coat lapel sign and display a placard on his car explaining which language or languages he or she speaks. About 150 of the drivers are women.

BERLIN RADIO ADMITS REICH CUT IN HALF

FIRST ARMY TAKES 88,144 PRISONERS IN RUHR

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Paris, Wednesday, April 18. (AP)—American armies, which already have virtually bisected Germany, broke into the prize cities of Leipzig and Magdeburg yesterday as British tanks tore loose on a 22-mile sweep that carried within 25 miles of the great port of Hamburg.

Duesseldorf, last major city in the Ruhr still held by the Germans, also was entered by doughboys who now have whittled down the Ruhr pocket to 125 square miles from its original 3,000 square miles.

Infantry Pushes Eastward
A Berlin military commentator asserted that Germany had been cut in half and now was forced to fight on two separate battlefields, but did not say whether this meant that Allied and Russian forces actually had met or merely that the Reich had been cut in two geographically by American forces reaching Czechoslovakia.

A late front dispatch said that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 90th infantry division, which with the 26th infantry is driving toward Czechoslovakia on a 15-mile front, had pushed eastward two miles during the day to within four miles of completing its stab across the waist of Germany.

The German garrison of Chemnitz, beleaguered fortress city 38 miles west of Dresden, rejected a Third army ultimatum to surrender and was being stormed from less than two miles away.

Bridgehead Intact
Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First army troops crashed through Leipzig's outer defenses on the fourth day of the battle for that city and were meeting lessening resistance as they fought into its bomb-shattered outskirts.

Two crack divisions of Lt. Gen. William Simpson's Ninth army—the 30th infantry and the Second armored—launched an all-out assault on Magdeburg after heavy aerial preparation and were reported making "excellent progress" through the streets of the industrial city on the banks of the Elbe river.

Troops of the First and Ninth armies linked up at Bernburg, a short distance from the Elbe some 27 miles due south of Magdeburg. The Ninth army's bridgehead across the Elbe at Barby, south-east of Magdeburg, remained intact.

On the north tanks of the British Second army broke loose for a 13-mile gain south of Hamburg through weakening Nazi resistance.

the Rhine crossing to 70,000. Canadian troops cleared Apeldoorn in Holland and drove to within six miles of the Zuider Zee at Barnewald, which they were mopping up.

French forces continued their assault against forts guarding the Atlantic port of Bordeaux, where a German garrison still held out. It was announced that German Admiral Michalis was captured with his entire staff, in the seizure of the Royan pocket near Bordeaux.

Other Third army troops were reported within some 30 miles of Dresden at an undesignated point. The Third alone seized 32,269 prisoners Monday. Plauen, which had a pre-war population of 110,000, was the site of a large tank factory.

In four days Gen. Hodges' attacking forces had knocked out 732 anti-aircraft guns, defending Leipzig. Among 4,437 prisoners seized from the Leipzig garrison, a dispatch declared, were some "jibbering imbeciles and screaming maniacs."

On the southern flank the U. S. 45th division was fighting bitterly through the streets of the Nazi congress city of Nuernberg, which it entered Monday.

Captive Records Broken

Doughboys of the Fourth division carried out orders in capturing the old Protestant stronghold of Rothenburg, near Nuernberg, without shelling, but found that more than a third of the historic town had been destroyed in a day-light bombing raid on the Saturday before Easter.

The First army led Monday's prisoner bag with an amazing 97,118—88,144 from the collapsing Ruhr pocket. More than 263,000 prisoners now had been taken in the Ruhr.

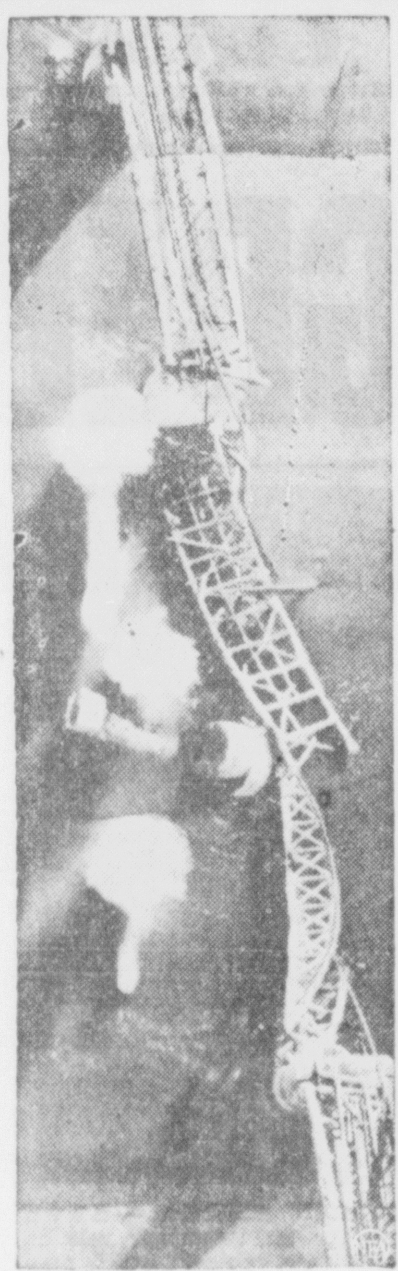

The First army's prisoner total since D-day stood at 659,117, the Third army's at 465,206 and the Ninth's at 344,938.

The Allies broke all records by capturing more than 144,000 prisoners Monday, bringing the total of captives for the first 16 days of April to 755,573.

A dispatch from Gen. Omar Bradley's army group headquarters disclosed that the armies of Gen. Eisenhower and Marshal Stalin now had occupied more than half of the greater Reich—101,000 square miles against 84,000 square miles remaining to the Nazis.

Allies Wreck 440 German Planes In Raids On Airfields

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
London, Wednesday, April 18 (AP)—Allied fighters destroyed at least 440 German planes yesterday, raising enemy losses to 2,937 in 11 days with attacks on jammed Nazi airfields in Germany and Czechoslovakia, while 1,000 American heavy bombers blasted targets in the likely junction area of American and Russian ground forces.

Of the German aircraft losses, at least 403 were on the ground. Thus far this month more than 4,129 enemy planes have been destroyed by American and British fliers, the heaviest blow coming Monday, when 1,016 enemy planes—estimated at one-fourth of the remaining German air force—were destroyed, and 700 others were damaged.

Political Prisoners Burned Up By Huns In Ghastly Roundup

BY ROBERT EUNSON
Gardelegen, Germany, April 16 (Delayed) (AP)—German SS (Elite Guard) troops burned to death 1,100 political prisoners here within the last few days while evacuating a concentration camp at nearby Mieste, 30 miles northwest of Magdeburg, a survivor said today.

The informant, one of six persons who escaped from the ghastly death roundup, said Belgian, French, Polish and Dutch prisoners were marched into a great brick warehouse near here. Straw which had been strewn two feet thick on the floor then was ignited, turning the building into an inferno.

Today a pile of charred bodies six feet high can be seen.

LT. HAWKINSON IS SHOT DOWN

Rescued By Paratroopers After Landing Near Wesel, Germany

Lt. Walden K. Hawkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hawkinson, 2319 Ludington street, Escanaba, who was shot down over Wesel, Germany, on March 24 and later rescued by U. S. paratroopers, is now recuperating in a hospital in England. He previously spent 10 days in a hospital in Belgium.

His parents received the following note from him yesterday:

"I was shot down over Wesel, Germany. Made forced landing in middle of a bunch of Germans. They shot most of boys in my ship; took the rest of us prisoners. Only was prisoner for about half an hour when our paratroopers took the territory and we were back with the U. S. Army again."

"German doctor treated me first and tied bandages on my leg. This all happened on March 24 when we had an airborne attack over the Rhine near Wesel. Lucky I didn't get all shot up like some of the boys."

Lt. Hawkinson joined the Army Air Force in 1941.

No Faltering Now, Armed Forces Told By New President

Washington, April 17 (AP)—President Truman told the armed forces of the United States throughout the world tonight that the nation would not falter in the cause for which President Roosevelt gave his life.

"All of us have lost a great leader, a far-sighted statesman and a real friend of democracy," he declared. "You have lost an old friend of the service."

"Our hearts are heavy. However the cause which claimed Roosevelt also claims us. He never faltered—nor will we!"

The address, broadcast to the men and women of the Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard, as well as to the people of the United States, was recorded for rebroadcasting in order to conform to the conveniences of fighters in every battle zone over the globe.

Bribe Taker Bans For Public Office Is Defeated Again

Lansing, April 17 (AP)—A house joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to bar from ever from public office any one convicted of accepting a bribe was defeated for the second time in the house of representatives today.

The vote was 48 to 38, with 14 members not voting. Sixty-seven votes are required to pass a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment. The proposal received 66 affirmative votes the first time it came to a vote.

Opponents, who previously had argued the resolution was retroactive, changed their attacks today, asserting that the subject was already covered in the criminal code and that the amendment had no place in the constitution.

Memorial Approved By Mrs. Roosevelt

New York, Apr. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today approved plans to create a memorial to the late President Roosevelt. Basil O'Connor, friend and former law partner of the late chief executive, said Mrs. Roosevelt had asked him to form a committee for the purpose of selecting the memorial.

The committee will be comprised of men and women who were friends of the late president and familiar with his activities and ideals, O'Connor said.

erated, has been asked to remain. This was to set at rest speculation about changes.

James F. Byrnes, former war mobilizer, has returned to South Carolina, the president said, and his advice will be sought when needed. But there are no plans for him now in the administration setup.

Gone from the president's desk were the scores of gadgets Mr. Roosevelt loved, replaced by several ash trays and a few pencils. Attending the conference, though, were Stephen Early, the late leader's press secretary; Admiral of the Fleet William D. Leahy, his personal chief of staff; William D. Hassett and Jonathan Daniels, other Roosevelt secretaries. Mr. Truman said he had asked them to stay on while his own staff is being trained.

He announced appointment of Matthew J. Connelly, of Clinton, Mass., as his confidential secretary, and Leonard Reinsch as his radio adviser.

Mr. Truman shook the hands of the reporters and said the same rules would apply as in Mr. Roosevelt's day, except that the conferences would be twice a week. The old schedule was weekly.

BY PAUL MILLER
Washington, April 17 (AP)—Harry S. Truman got an "A" from Washington's press and radio corps today on his first news conference test.

The biggest turnout of newsmen and women ever to jam the oval room was on hand to see how the new president would handle himself. Here's what they applauded:

1. The conference was called for 10:30 a. m. and that's when the doors were thrown open.

2. They got some sort of an answer to every question, and promptly.

3. Standing, President Truman noticed the plight of a reporter at the rear, who was repeatedly interrupted and left talking to himself as those on the front row dominated the questioning. Mr. Truman hushed the front-row questioners, invited the downtrodden fellow far back to take the floor.

At the end, there was a spontaneous burst of hand-clapping. It was a gesture of goodwill and, frankly, of actual relief in the case of some particularly close to Mr. Truman and eager to see him acquit himself well.

The president announced that he'll hold only one conference a week, at least for a while, instead of Franklin D. Roosevelt's two. They'll be held "in the morning one week, and in the afternoon the next, and he'll select the day according to how much he has to say."

He will receive no complaints about this cut-down schedule if it doesn't threaten to become fixed practice. For the moment there is little disposition among White House reporters to object—while Mr. Truman is getting under way.

Much-Postponed Car Brake Test Scheduled Today

Barring inclement weather, which has caused postponement of the event since last Friday, the car brake test last scheduled for yesterday will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the 1100 and 1200 blocks, First avenue south.

High winds and rain yesterday made it necessary to hold the demonstration off for another day. Police and sheriff's departments are cooperating in staging the program which will demonstrate the value of good brakes—and the danger of defective ones.

Three sets of cars, six cars in all, will be driven in the test. Three of the cars will have defective brakes and three will have brakes which are in good condition.

Because crowds are expected to be at hand to witness the demonstration it is necessary that the pavement be dry to avoid the hazard of skidding the cars.

A lap table saves effort in preparing vegetables for cooking and canning.

T/4 Anthony Zawada Gets Bronze Medal

T/4 Anthony Zawada, of Germfask, serving in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, has been awarded the bronze star medal for meritorious service in France, the war department has announced.

The citation for T/4 Zawada follows:

"For meritorious service during the period Aug. 10, 1944 to Nov. 30, 1944 in France. During this period T/4 Zawada, attached to Fourth Armored division, materially aided in construction of trestle bridges across the Moselle river. T/4 Zawada, despite intense enemy fire and disregarding his own safety remained at the bridge sites, although his crane was an excellent target. T/4 Zawada several times volunteered his services to other units after continuous duty at previous bridge crossings and during rest periods loaded sand and cinders to aid traffic. T/4 Zawada's never tiring work and loyal devotion to duty reflects great credit upon himself and the military service."

Orpheus Club Concert Marked By Diversity

A colonial setting of the Old South provided the background for "In a Southern Garden", special closing feature of the Orpheus Choral Club Concert presented to a full house at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium at the junior high school last night. The able direction of R. Paul Bowers brought fine cooperation from choir members throughout the performance. Worthy of note, also, were the accompaniment of Ann Piche and the staging-direction of Fred Johnson.

Viola McCormick and Frank Hirm were the principals in the cast of the musical skit in which they celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary. Script for the skit was written by Miss Helen Snyder.

Guests who came to help the couple were Lilah Wylie, Clara Frechette, Tillie Olson, Gertrude Bartel, George Weingartner, Vaughan Belanger, Charles Hammar and Louis Hildebrand. Support was given by the entire chorus in the singing of a number of old favorites. Selections included "Silver Threads Among the Gold", "When You and I Were Young Maggie", "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia", "I Love You Truly", "Let Me Call You Sweetheart", "My Wild Irish Rose",

City Commission Has First Session

The city commission held their first meeting Monday evening in the council rooms of the city hall with the new Mayor Lowell M. Gibson. At this time the commission consists of two men, Gibson and Harry C. Nelson with Henry St. Martin, commissioner of public works, being absent on military leave. Any business concerned with public works that comes before the council is now handled by both of the commissioners.

A committee of four girls with Evelyn Holter as chairman appeared before the commission asking for the appointment of a city paid supervisor to take care of the Youth Center, such as being done in other communities. The request was tabled and will be acted upon after an investigation of the Youth Center is made by the council to see if the center would warrant a paid supervisor.

Five tavern operators presented their certified checks to the council for their Class C liquor license. Leonard Ohlen, John Borbot, John Tervo, Verland Benson and George Wilderspin and they were approved. One tavern license for the sale of beer and wine was approved for Charles Bushey.

A discussion was held on the possibility of the city and property owners getting together for the improvement of the city's sidewalks but Commissioner Nelson stated that the city has no ordinance stating that any sidewalk improvements must be paid for by the property owner.

The commission then approved bills to be paid, the payroll and then adjourned.

Gilt-Edge Investment

ANOTHER war loan drive is coming up, and many readers probably will raise the question as to where the money is to be found in the Upper Peninsula to meet the quotas set up for each of the 15 counties.

Some will point out that the Upper Peninsula has few war industries to provide surplus income like that to be found in other areas. The facts are, however, that there is much extra money in this region, and only a small percentage of it has been going into war bonds.

Speaking at the meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday, Bert Hadley of the War Finance committee pointed out that bank statements reveal there was $46,347.00 in savings accounts on June 30, 1943. A year later, this fund had been increased by $10,597,000, and six months later by an additional $7,976,000. An undetermined but large amount of money is also hoarded under mattresses, in tin cans and other secret hiding places.

In the Sixth War Loan drive, Delta county individuals invested $335,000 in "E" bonds and $116,000 in "F" and "G" issues. But during the six-month period from June 30 to Dec. 30, 1944, individual savings deposits were swollen by $1,168,000.

War bonds are a gilt-edge investment. The United States government has never defaulted on its obligations, and it never will. Citizens who buy bonds are helping their government to finance its war expenditures. They are saving money for that postwar home, farm, automobile or even the proverbial rainy day. They are also helping to curb inflation by siphoning off surplus cash bids for scarce consumer goods. Buying of war bonds is a very practical form of patriotism.

Enemy Weakened in Air

IF THERE has been any doubt that V-E day is rapidly approaching, it must certainly have been eliminated Monday when Allied fighters wrecked no less than 845 Nazi planes in Germany, most of them destroyed on the ground for lack of fuel and for lack of fliers to man them. The total number of German planes destroyed already this month is past the 3,000 mark.

An effective fighting force, the vaunted Luftwaffe is finished. That means, also, that Germany's entire defense is fast collapsing because if there is any one thing that has been learned in this war, it is the striking importance of air power.

Simultaneous with the finish of the German air force is the announcement by Gen. Carl Spaatz, the Eighth Air Force in England, that Allied heavy bombers have already won the strategic air war in Germany and that American Flying Fortresses and Liberators hereafter will be used for tactical operations. In layman's language that means that the bombing of German industries is completed and that the big bombers now will devote their efforts to direct assistance of Allied ground forces. In the main, the bombers will shift their targets from factories to enemy troop concentrations.

What has already happened in Germany is also happening in Japan. We are taking a tremendous toll of Japanese planes in our attacks in that theater of war. Our strategic bombing task is merely beginning but the 20th Air Force, operating the B-29's, has indicated that it can accomplish the job of knocking out all of Japan's war industries, just as the 8th Air Force and the RAF have knocked out German industries.

American Liberators and Flying Fortresses, based on Okinawa, Iwo Jima, the Kerama islands and other bases still to be wrested from the Japanese, soon will be operating over Tokyo, Nagoya and other industrial centers of Japan. It may not be too much to hope that we can drive the Japanese to submission by the power of our air blows alone.

No Solace for Enemy

THERE was nothing in President Truman's address to Congress that would induce the Nazis and Japs to believe they will have an easier way out of this war than if the late President Roosevelt had lived long after victory over the Axis.

President Truman reaffirmed the United Nations policy of unconditional surrender. He promised that war criminals would be made to pay for their crimes. He appealed to the American people to put their shoulders to the wheel to hasten the final push to victory. There was no mistaking his intention to carry on the war with equal or even increased vigor and to use his influence toward America's assuming her rightful role in international cooperation. There was nothing in his address that would give any comfort to isolationists.

Public reaction to President Truman's message is regarded as highly favorable. The new president has the advantage of having acquired few enemies or critics in his comparatively brief career in national politics. The American public is willing to give him a chance to make good. He has the added advantage of having been a member of Congress, and consequently there is the happy prospect of improved relations between the executive and legislative branches of our national government.

In fact, there is the real possibility that President Truman might have an easier time in obtaining the cooperation of the senate in the organization of a world peace program than would have been the case if President Roosevelt had lived to face this responsibility.

Poachers Active Again

ILLEGAL spearing of walleyed pike is again reported to be under way in the Whitefish river near Rapid River.

Conservation officers are making a sincere effort to curb these unwarranted violations of the state fish laws, but as usual it is a difficult job. First of all, they must have the goods on the poachers before they arrest them. Then, they are never certain that juries in justice courts will convict the guilty. There is still a disposition in some communities to favor the fish or game law violator.

In the postwar years, Rapid River, Masonville, Gladstone and Escanaba will be more dependent than ever on the tourist industry. These communities will have an opportunity to capitalize the wonderful fishing possibilities at the head of Little Bay de Nov. Civic-minded citizens of these communities would do well to assist the conservation department in every possible way to curb the wanton misuse of the fish resources of these waters.

Sweden May Fight

DEFENSE Minister Per Edvin Skold of Sweden announced last month that the Swedish government had purchased 50 fighter planes from the United States. At the same time, he hinted that Sweden might enter the war against Germany if the Nazis decide to follow a scorch-earth policy before evacuating Norway.

There is a strong possibility that the Germans may wreck Norway's factories, hydro-electric plants, dock facilities, ships and other industrial assets. Fearing this prospect, the Norwegian government has appealed to the Allies and Sweden to intervene.

The Swedish people have long shown that their sympathies are overwhelmingly anti-Nazi, but their government has cautiously pursued a neutral course, wishing to avoid the bloodshed and destruction that has been suffered by other countries invaded by the Germans.

This neutral policy has incurred the enmity of Norwegians, who have been long anxious to rid themselves of the Nazi yoke. They feel that Sweden has not assumed their moral responsibilities in the United Nations' effort to stamp out tyranny and aggression. Incidentally, many of the Swedes feel the same way about it, but thus far their government has remained adamant.

PARKS VS. PLANTS
(Detroit Free Press)

One of the concessions Detroit must make to its industrial greatness is the sacrifice of a garden-like character for the whole community.

That is why there is food for thought in the warning of Harvey Campbell, of the Board of Commerce, to the Common Council. He said that available factory sites within the city are being used up. To appropriate remaining and for public parks will mean that new industry will be forced outside the city limits.

Detroit has already located a zoo and a golf course and is acquiring an airport site beyond the city boundaries. As more parks are needed, we have ample precedent for putting them outside the city proper. There is plenty of land, easily accessible to large segments of the population, on the perimeter.

To locate them there, where the air is clean and natural facilities are at their best, is logical.

From W. T., New Rochelle:

Will you tell us in your column, in a manner not quite solemn, just why we say we've got down to brass tacks?

I'm puzzled by the ruling. That this means that we've stopped fooling. And now are working only with the facts.

Answer: I've searched in vain for the origin of this expressive idiom. Could it lie in the fact that in upholstering, certain pieces of furniture are ready for the finishing touches when the workmen have only to drive in the brass tacks? How about it, readers?

From J. L. T., Nacogdoches: This jingle, whether or no it be Springfield: The French slang word for soldier is "poilu." If I remember my French, poilu has something or other to do with "hair." How come?—J. T.

Answer: Poilu is an adjective meaning "hairy." In a figurative sense, poilu is a noun meaning, "A strong and brave man." Hence, a soldier, especially of World War One.

To pronounce the "u" of poilu, purse the lips as if to say "oo." Without changing

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Even before Harry Truman had taken the oath of office as President of the United States, in the interval following President Roosevelt's death, he had acquired a host of advisers who were reshuffling his cabinet and shifting his policy line.

Childs

If he had had the time or the inclination to listen at that dramatic moment in his career, he would have been surprised to discover how many people knew exactly what he meant to do. He was described over the radio as a "middle-of-the-road" who would quickly switch administration policy to the right and brush off any straggling New Dealers who persisted in hanging on.

Among those listed as due to depart was Harry L. Hopkins, Roosevelt's faithful man Friday throughout the war. It may be, of course, that the relationship between the late President and Hopkins was so personal in nature that he could not service Mr. Roosevelt's successor.

—HOPKINS KNOWS STALIN—

But Harry Truman has always shown himself to be a sensible man, and Hopkins has one important asset that Truman may need very badly.

He has been in on every important diplomatic and military move of the past five years. He knows Churchill and Eden and many of the men in the Churchill government. He knows Stalin and the Russians.

Hopkins has attended every important conference—Casablanca, Quebec, Teheran, Yalta—since the beginning of the war. He helped originate the lend-lease concept and he played an important part in negotiating the lend-lease agreements.

Whatever you may think of Hopkins or his policies, he does have the know-how. And at the top level in the field of foreign affairs, that is a scarce commodity right now.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr. has been in office scarcely more than six months. While he had experience in the lend-lease administration, he has nothing like the background of Hopkins. At least two of Stettinius' new assistants are without previous experience in the foreign field.

The plain fact is that today in Washington there are very few men who combine knowledge and experience in international relations. It is not something that can be acquired overnight. Therefore the country should have the advantage of Hopkins' real capacities.

—IN POOR HEALTH—

Following the Yalta conference, I heard a professional diplomat with long experience as a technician at such meetings give Hopkins high praise. This American said he was impressed with the objectivity with which Roosevelt's adviser and friend approached the problems that were threshed out during the Crimea talks.

Hopkins is not, of course, a well man. He must nurse his health with the utmost care, and it may be that he no longer has the stamina which high public responsibility requires.

But nevertheless he is a case in point. If Truman should let prejudice stand in the way of making proper use of Hopkins' knowledge, we should all be the losers. If in this moment of urgency, useful men are rejected for reasons of party or partisanship, then we shall most certainly fail.

Back in the days when he first came to the Senate, in 1935, Truman was received with scant courtesy. As the protégé of Boss Pendergast, he took a seat in the back row and watched and listened. There were some who openly sneered.

To my knowledge, Truman never held any grudge against those who were discourteous to him. As he rose in the Senate, winning friendship and prestige by virtue of hard work and his friendly, unassuming manner, he did not change. There was none of the strutting egotism which afflicts the bearing of some senators.

It will be far harder this time to keep on a sane and reasonable level. The strands of intriguing jealousy are wound around the office Truman has taken over. Lord Acton's words—"power always corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely"—have so often proved true.

But I believe President Truman will try to steer a clear course. If he is not too weighed down by advisers, gratuitous and otherwise, he should be able to do the job that is before him.

Gracie Allen Says.

Now Hitler knows how a vacuum cleaner salesman feels (or used to feel). One after another, the neutral countries are slamming the door in his face.

There's a fine moral in this. One day Hitler has his foot on everybody's neck, and the next day he can't get his foot in anybody's door.

Spain doesn't want him. Portugal won't have him. Switzerland isn't in the market for any run-down cuckoo clocks, and he couldn't get into Sweden disguised as a platter of Smorgasbord.

About the only prospect left for Hitler is Japan, and I don't think the Japs want him around either. With their place undergoing extensive alterations by B-29s, the guest room isn't likely to be in the best of shape.

The lips, say "ee", blending the two vowel sounds together, exactly as in pronouncing the German unlaute "u" ("u" with two dots over it). Let the symbol (e) represent the sound of "ee" said with the pursed lips. Poilu then, is pronounced: pwa-L(e).

Great, Great Grandson of the Argonauts

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

PICTURE OF SUPERMAN—As the war nears a climax in Germany it becomes increasingly difficult for Americans to understand why the Germans do not surrender. War analysts and other authorities have told us it is because there is no longer a leadership of the people to go through the motions of surrender.

It has become a condition where the people fight on because there is nothing else for them to do. When the last pocket of resistance is wiped out a beaten Germany will be a country but still sullenly resisting.

The problem of what to do with Germany after the war thus becomes most difficult. The atrocities that have been committed in the name of the German people leaves one of the blackest marks in all history on the record of an otherwise enlightened people.

America and the world will have in the reeducation of the Germans, the greatest task that has ever been the responsibility of any people. How successful this will be will in a major part depend upon the willingness of the Germans to cooperate in such a program. Should they refuse it is possible that they will, through the centuries, finally become virtually extinct as a warlike nation in a world dedicated to peace.

UNDERSTANDING—Americans must guard against their habit of ascribing civilization and enlightenment to a people capable of material progress, as are the Germans.

A letter indirectly expressing amazement at the ability of the Germans to harbor militarism in a country that has so much of the material things had been written by Technical Sgt. Bruce J. Walker to his father, Fred M. Walker, 1014 Sixth Avenue south, Sgt. Walker is 28 years of age, has been in service more than three years, and is now with an infantry regiment of the army in Germany.

GI OBSERVATION—Sgt. Walker is an observing chap. He writes: "I've seen the German soldiers fleeing in horse-drawn vehicles and pulling their 88's behind them. They went so fast and made so much noise it reminded us of the old stage coaches of the movies."

"I've also seen our tanks plowing down their tracks congested with horses, cattle, pigs, etc. Plenty of livestock is killed by artillery and I saw a poor little colt sitting by its dead parents."

"The more I see of Germany the more I find it is really a very pretty and darn nice country. There are some beautiful evergreen forests."

"It makes you wonder why they are always fighting, because there are vast areas of uninhabited and nice looking land, and plenty of nice hardwood and many good farms."

"I've never seen a house without electricity, even on the smallest farm. There are also some modern electric ranges. The houses, of course, are all stone or brick but not unlike ours on the inside. They have nice furniture, running water, meat grinders, movie projectors, etc. In more than one house I've found American canned foods such as coffee, dehydrated soups, etc."

"Western Germany is overwhelmingly Catholic and very religious. All of the houses are full of religious paintings, and each town has a nice Catholic church. The people are pretty rugged looking but I guess they are glad to see us."

"They are also glad to see us go on because we eat their preserves, eggs, meat, milk, etc. I cut some beef in a butcher shop recently

The Chicago & Northwestern's new $2,500,000 ore dock will be formally taken over from the contractors, Peppard and Burrill, today when the first ore will be dumped into the pockets of the structure. The first boat will be loaded at "New No. 6" Monday.

Donald Trotter was honor guest at a birthday party given at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Trotter, 313 South Ninth street, Thursday. Ten little children were present.

Bayard Veiller's famous mystery play, "The Thirteenth Chair" will be presented May 8 as the annual Escanaba High school senior play. The faculty are coaching the piece. Members of the cast are Elaine Flagstad, Howard Champley, Leola Stratton, Marvin Follo, Jack Berrigan, Irene Johnston, Florence Johnson, Victor Powers, Paul Haring, Jack Williams, Eleanor Falk, Robert Valentine, Dorothy Garrity, Clyde Wilson and Harold Cass.

and fried some nice hamburgs.

"It's not all fun though and in one town they 'threw everything at us except the kitchen sink.' They almost literally blew us out of bed one A. M. with 'screaming Mimis'. Another time I thought it was curtains when they gave us an 88 barrage and one exploded five yards from my fox hole."

INTERPRETATION—Probably Sgt. Walker will not agree on the following interpretation of his observations, or perhaps he will. Germany is a comparatively rich and fertile land, and the Germans as a whole are frugal, hard-working and industrious in the modern sense.

There still remain large areas which could be opened to the intensive development for which the Old World is famous in an agricultural way.

The people in the majority, even in the rural areas, knew comfort on a level perhaps comparable with our own.

They are innately religious and depend on the solace and spiritual guidance the church provides.

Security means much to them and they suffer when their hoarded food is dipped into by American fighting forces.

Despite war they have apparently retained their livestock and at least a start toward the rehabilitation of the land on which depends any nation's basic economy.

CONCLUSION—The postwar problem of Germany is not one of feeding a starving people. It is the problem of correcting a starved and perverted mentality, perverted by a diet of misinformation based on the fallacy that Germans are qualified and chosen to control and administer the world. This insane expression of the ego has often been encountered among one man or a group of men in the past. Seldom has a whole nation been so afflicted.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT

... When "Watch on the Rhine" played a command performance in Washington the cast went to the White House for supper after the show. Mr. Roosevelt called each one to his side and discussed a topic of mutual interest. To Frank Wilson, the Negro who played the role of the butler, the President told the legend of the Lincoln ghost in the White House. When Wilson returned to his seat, Paul Lukas asked: "What did the President say to you?" ... The Negro actor fingered the White House linen and table-wear, and the placard bearing his name. "The President of the United States tried to tell me that the spirit of Lincoln still lives here," said Frank Wilson—as if he had to tell me.

ONE OF HIS friends once criticized the President for failing to denounce the dictatorial practices of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. "I'm preparing to fight Hague now," he said to the President. "Will you support me?" ... "If Hague were to run for Mayor again tomorrow," asked Mr. Roosevelt, "what do you think the people of Jersey City would do?" ... "They would re-elect him," was the frank answer. "In that case," said Mr. Roosevelt, "the thing for you to do is start educating the people of Jersey City."

WHEN EMIL LUDWIG began the preliminary work on the biography of Mr. Roosevelt, Ludwig confided: "This is a new and difficult job for me, Mr. President. My biographies of Napoleon, Bismarck, Goethe and Bolivar have made me write. It is hard to appraise you, because you are still alive." ... The President still is living. ... The President clutched the biographer's hand, and interrupted his note-scribbling. "In that case," F. D. R. laughed, "I have a suggestion to make—let's both wait one century."

DURING THE Casablanca conference the President discovered a copy of his Ludwig biography in the library of the house where he was staying. The President opened the book, and on the flyleaf he wrote an inscription, thanking the owner of that house for the hospitality shown him. In his flight to this historic conference the President wore a long-sleeved collegiate sweater. It belonged to his son, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who had worn it when he was a member of the Harvard crew. ... "Sometime, if you ever get the chance to," F. D. R. once told me, "remind the people that my Old Man is the most religious man who ever lived in the White House."

SOON AFTER the enactment of the Selective Service law the President told me, and permitted me to print, the story of how he almost became a U. S. Army private. In 1896, when he was 16, he and another Grotton boy decided to run away from school and join the Army in the war against Spain. That night they hid in a pie wagon which was traveling towards the recruiting station. The other boy complained of a feverish forehead. "Mine's the same," said young Franklin, "but let's forget it. We're men now, and we have a man's job to do."

An hour later both complained of parched throats. "Let's forget that too," said Roosevelt. "We've taken on a man's job, and we'll act like men." But the men never got to the war. Both had measles.

Definition of recognizable new governments—turned over to the Interamerican Judicial committee for the requirements to be drafted.

Changes in the Panamerican Union—a plan to provide meetings of foreign ministers at fixed intervals; approved by the conference.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—The town seemed very empty today—and a little numb. Actually Franklin Roosevelt hasn't been here much this winter, and things are really no different. He went to Warm Springs after his re-election, then to Hyde Park and Christmas, then, after the inauguration, to Yalta, then back to Hyde Park and Warm Springs. I doubt if he had been in Washington a total of two months since election day.

Pearson

Even the guards around the public buildings, the folks who sit on the park benches, the elevator operators, the taxi drivers, seem a little lost. More than any other man, Roosevelt was their President. They felt he was working for them. And he was. They know it will be hard for them to get another such friend.

It is hard to write about Roosevelt now that he is dead. It was easy to write about him when he was living. He was vivid, colorful copy. And batting out one column a day, seven days a week for thirteen years, I have probably written more about him than any other man in America—some things he liked, some he didn't like, and some he criticized quite frankly in public.

But not everything was written. And here are some of the unwritten things I remember about Franklin Roosevelt.

—FDR EMPTIED ARSENALS—

I have always thought that Roosevelt turned the tide of the European war by a daring move in the late spring of 1940, when France fell and it looked as if England would be lost.

The British had lost most of their arms at Dunkerque. Their arsenals were almost empty. Ours were none too full, but the President, in one bold stroke, emptied them. He knew that if he waited, Hitler would invade England. He knew what the consequences were to the United States if that happened.

He knew also that if he went to Congress, it would debate pro and con for weeks, and the isolationists might defeat him. So he took the law into his own hands. Probably he acted illegally. But he acted. And England was saved.

—HOW DEWEY GOT MAD—

I have always thought also that Roosevelt won his fourth term campaign by a very smart piece of strategy which only he would have devised. He got Tom Dewey mad. He deliberately set out to get him mad.

Dewey had been coasting along, making semi-New Deal speeches which were beginning to win a few votes away from Roosevelt. His Seattle speech on labor, his old-age pension speech at Los Angeles, were almost identical with FDR's own policies. There was not enough basic difference between the candidates for people to get out and vote. And the Gallup poll told Roosevelt that if there was not a heavy vote, he would lose.

So at the Teamster's dinner, he deliberately set out to prod and poke Governor Dewey and stir him into a rage. Dewey fell for the trap and at Oklahoma City came back with a smashing speech attacking Roosevelt on everything. Republican leaders were delighted. So was the President.

From that time on, labor began to get sore. They rallied to get out the vote. From that point on, Roosevelt knew he was elected. I have always thought that if FDR hadn't succeeded in getting Dewey mad, Dewey might be in the White House today.

—FDR LOVED YACHTS—

Roosevelt was one of the smartest politicians ever to sit in the White House, but once in a while he slipped. One slip was when he let himself be drawn into the senatorial purge campaign of 1933, and among those slips was his decision to invade the Eastern shore of Maryland against Senator Millard Tydings.

That decision was based entirely upon Roosevelt's love of boats. I was on the inside of that campaign and sat with Mayor Jackson of Baltimore when it was arranged to have the President deliver a labor day speech at Baltimore, an industrial city where labor is important.

But the President said no. He wanted to cross Chesapeake Bay in his yacht Potomac and motor up the eastern shore of Maryland. It would be restful week-end relaxation. There was no labor audience on the eastern shore, only hostile farmers. But the President wanted to take that boat trip, and he took it.

The Labor Day speech at Denton, Md., was a good one. But it was out of place. Hostile banners greeted him everywhere. The results, as shown at the polls later, were disastrous.

—SPANISH WAR BUNGLING—

No man was ever more right in foreseeing this war and trying to head it off than Franklin Roosevelt. His attempts to block the Japanese as early as 1937 are too long to be told here and will have to wait for a later column. That, however, was where Roosevelt and Henry L. Stimson, now Secretary of War, first were drawn together. Stimson had come down to see FDR in 1933 just after his inauguration, to urge a strong stand against Japan. Roosevelt promised and stuck to that promise.

However, I always felt that the President was not as farsighted in regard to Spain as in regard to Japan. I talked to him at some length about this at Hyde Park during the Spanish Civil war. He realized that Hitler and Mussolini were subsidizing Franco and that this might be a curtain-raiser to a general European war.

Roosevelt Will Give Widow First Right To All Personal Property

New York, (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt provided in his will that his widow should have the right to select any and all personal property which she desires and to utilize it during her lifetime.

The will, filed today with the clerk of the Surrogate's Court of Dutchess County, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and made public here by John C. Farber of the law firm of O'Connor and Farber, 120 Broadway, also makes specific bequests to St. James church, Hyde Park, N. Y., Georgia Warm Springs Foundation and to personal employees and servants.

The will was executed Nov. 12, 1941. The value of the estate was not determined.

It provides that after Mrs. Roosevelt has selected personal property, the five children shall each have the right to select one-fifth of the residue of the personal property.

Any property not chosen by Mrs. Roosevelt or the couple's children, the will said, shall be offered by the executors as a gift to the United States government for display in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library or the Roosevelt main house at Hyde Park.

The main house and its adjacent grounds were conveyed to the government last year, subject to certain rights of use reserved to Mrs. Roosevelt and the children.

The executors and trustees of the estate are Col. James Roosevelt, the late president's eldest son; Basil O'Connor, his former law partner and Henry T. Hackett, an attorney of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Roosevelt bequeathed the residuary estate to the trustees to be held in trust by them.

All income from the trust fund is to go to Mrs. Roosevelt during her lifetime.

Upon her death, the will stated, one half of the principal then remaining in the trust fund, together with all accumulations of income, if any, is to be paid in equal shares to the then living children of the late president.

The will provides that upon the death of any of the Roosevelt children, their children shall receive the share to which the parent would have been entitled.

The remaining half of the principal is to be divided upon Mrs. Roosevelt's death into separate trusts, each of which is to be held by the trustees for the benefit of the children and grandchildren.

The 14-page printed will included the following specific bequests:

To St. James Church, Hyde Park, $5,000 for the cemetery fund and for upkeep of the Roosevelt family burial plots.

To the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, all of Mr. Roosevelt's real estate in Meriwether County, Georgia, including his personal property at that place.

To each servant and employee whose salary was paid by Mr. Roosevelt, $100.

The late president asked that his family leave "the greater part of the personal property" at the main house in Hyde Park for the Federal Government, after official occupancy has been made so that the general character of the house be not altered.

The will added that this should not be construed as a restriction on the rights of Mrs. Roosevelt, their children or the executors to select personal property for the heirs for "personal use in their own homes."

President Roosevelt gave to the executors the right "to fix the time within which the government of the United States shall elect to accept all or any part of the said personal property" which may not be chosen by the heirs.

Mr. Roosevelt asked his children or other surviving heirs "to select only such articles of personal property" as they "may be in a position to use personally in their own homes."

The will contains a provision for payment of a stated income to, and payment for the care of, Miss Margaret A. Le Hand, longtime secretary to Mr. Roosevelt, who died last July 31.

Witnesses to the will, drawn shortly after the death of Mrs. James Roosevelt, the late president's mother, were:

Miss Grace Tully, confidential secretary to Mr. Roosevelt; Thomas J. Quailers, secret service man assigned to the late president; and William F. Snyder, a member of the law firm which filed the will.

In the 18th Century, Salem (N. C.) marriage proposals were conveyed to girls by Moravian church officials after the drawing of a lot to determine whether the match was approved by the Lord.

The lots were simply affirmative and negative, and if a negative lot was drawn the proposal was not presented.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

war, but he hesitated to buck religious groups in this country by intervening.

He also blamed the state department for not giving quiet diplomatic help the Spanish Republicans, and even told me the amazing fact that his own brother-in-law, Hall Roosevelt, had gone to Paris to sell arms to the Spanish Loyalists through France, but that this had been blocked by the state department.

Some day when the whole story of the Spanish Civil war is told, it will be one of the darker spots in the Roosevelt foreign policy picture.

The President loved to tell stories and sometimes exasperated callers who had come loaded to put across ideas to him rather than hear his stories. However, he was a marvelous raconteur.

One morning I was sitting with him in the Lincoln study when he told me the story of his first political battle in the Albany senate. It took him nearly fifteen minutes, during which Marvin McIntyre was telephoning at five-minute intervals from the Executive offices demanding that he come over to his desk. However, the President would not be deterred.

FDR was under thirty when he was elected to the New York senate, at which time the Ryan Traction interests attempted to put across "Blue-eyed Billy" Sheehan as U. S. Senator from New York. (Senators were elected by the state legislatures in those days.) However, Roosevelt led a little band of Progressive Democrats and Republicans who fought the appointment and had a majority of about three votes.

At the height of the battle, however, Roosevelt said that a senator named Charlie Cusack had come to him to say that the mortgage on his farm was going to be foreclosed if he voted against Sheehan.

"Seneca county hadn't elected a Democrat since 1836," the President said, "and Charlie Cusack was a political miracle. He was about 73 years old, had a long beard, usually stained with tobacco juice. We investigated, found the mortgage was a good investment, and that the Ryan Traction interests had pressured the bank. So some of us raised the money to pay off the mortgage."

"Then we found that two others on our side were threatened with mortgage foreclosures. So we paid them off."

"Then one night, in the Ten Eyck Hotel," Roosevelt continued, "Charlie Cusack was sitting with a couple of other legislators, drinking beer. At midnight the bar closed and one of them suggested that they go down to a speakeasy. The three legislators were sitting there drinking beer with three girls on their knees when suddenly the place was pinched."

The President, with a flare for description, got a great kick out of telling the story. He omitted no details, telling how the legislators were afraid of political reactions in their own districts if their arrests appeared on the police blotter.

"We're legislators — you can't arrest us," they argued.

"The hell we can't," replied the police.

Finally one of the legislators remarked that he knew Charlie Murphy, the head of Tammany, who in turn knew Pinkie McCabe, who controlled the police of Albany. So this legislator slipped out to phone Murphy. After an interval he came back.

"It's OK, boys," he reported to Charlie Cusack and the other legislator. "I talked to Charlie Murphy and he talked to Pinkie McCabe. Pinkie says he'll call off the police. Everything's going to be OK. "But," he continued, "There's one thing you've got to do in return, Charlie." And he turned to Senator Cusack. "You've got to vote for 'Blue-eyed' Billy Sheehan."

"Well," drawled Charlie Cusack, according to the President, "I've been thinkin' this thing over. I'm 73 years old. Down in Seneca county they call me 'Uncle Charlie.' But I figure that if they read I'm arrested in this kind of a house they'll send me back to Albany the rest of my life. Bring on the police."

Naturally, this was a plant by the Ryan Traction interests and a phony arrest. Roosevelt won his first great liberal victory. He defeated Sheehan for the senate. That marked the beginning of the many battles he fought for liberal government up until the end, last week.

Shortly before the end of his second term, Roosevelt, still silent as to his third term plans, was under heavy pressure to run again. Jimmy Roosevelt was then a member of the White House staff.

Roosevelt called in a group of advisers, including Harry Hopkins and his son Jimmy, and asked them to submit their reasons why they thought he should run. One of those present made a particularly eloquent plea. When the conference was over and the group filed out, Jimmy rushed up and said:

"What are you trying to do? You're trying to kill my father! No man can live through 3 terms in that job. You can't do this to him. We won't let you do this to him!"

"Jimmy," said the White House aide, "he's your father, but he belongs to the country as well. He belongs to the world."

Vinegar Joe Tells How He Got Name

Roanoke, Va., (AP)—How "Vinegar Joe" got his nickname is explained in a letter from Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, which children of Room Three at Virginia Heights School are exhibiting proudly.

"I just can't help it, and maybe I deserve it. Anyway, there are so many names they could call me that are worse than I am quite satisfied that they stick to 'Vinegar.'"

"They pinned it on me at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., one day after I had bawled out the students for being very slipshod."

"I was trying to impress upon them the fact that they as officers must know their jobs very thoroughly so that in action their men would have full confidence in them. And our American soldiers deserve good leaders. They are the best soldiers in the world, and the most cheerful and willing and intelligent soldiers, too."

News From Men In The Service

Lt. Rayne Labre, Jr., was promoted to the rank of captain, April 1 according to word received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rayne Labre, Sr., 522 South Seventh street. Capt. Labre is now in Belgium.

Pfc. Leandrie C. Roeder, 508 South 12th street, Escanaba, Mich., has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge for exemplary conduct in action against the enemy in the Philippine Islands campaign.

The award was made by Brigadier General Hugh Hoffman, commander of the First Cavalry Division. Roeder is also a veteran of the Admiralty Islands campaign and has been overseas since June, 1943.

T/5 James R. Levesque writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Levesque of Bark River, that he is confined to a hospital somewhere in the Philippines with a sprained knee. He has been in three invasions in the Philippines and has been in the Pacific since Sept. 1944.

When B-25 Mitchell bombers of this group hit Braxley, Austria, 45 miles southeast of Munich, farther north than any other medium Mediterranean-based bombers have ever flown, one of the combat crew members was 1st Lt. Leslie E. Maki, 23, whose father, Emil J. Maki, lives at Rock, Mich. He is now flying as a pilot of the 12th Air Force B-25 Mitchell bomber.

The B-25 group with which the northern and eastern sections of Berlin when I left the German capital eight days ago.

On the eve of my departure hungry mothers of starving children stormed food shops in the Alexanderplatz and almost lynched an SA (Stormtroop) guard who tried to quiet them with the suggestion they economize on their bread rations.

The population is ripe for rebellion but it will be a hunger revolt, not a fight for freedom.

The Germans have forgotten what freedom is. As long as starvation stays away from their doors there never is any chance of insurrection even though 90 per cent of the capital's citizens heartily wish for a speedy end to the Nazi Hierarchy.

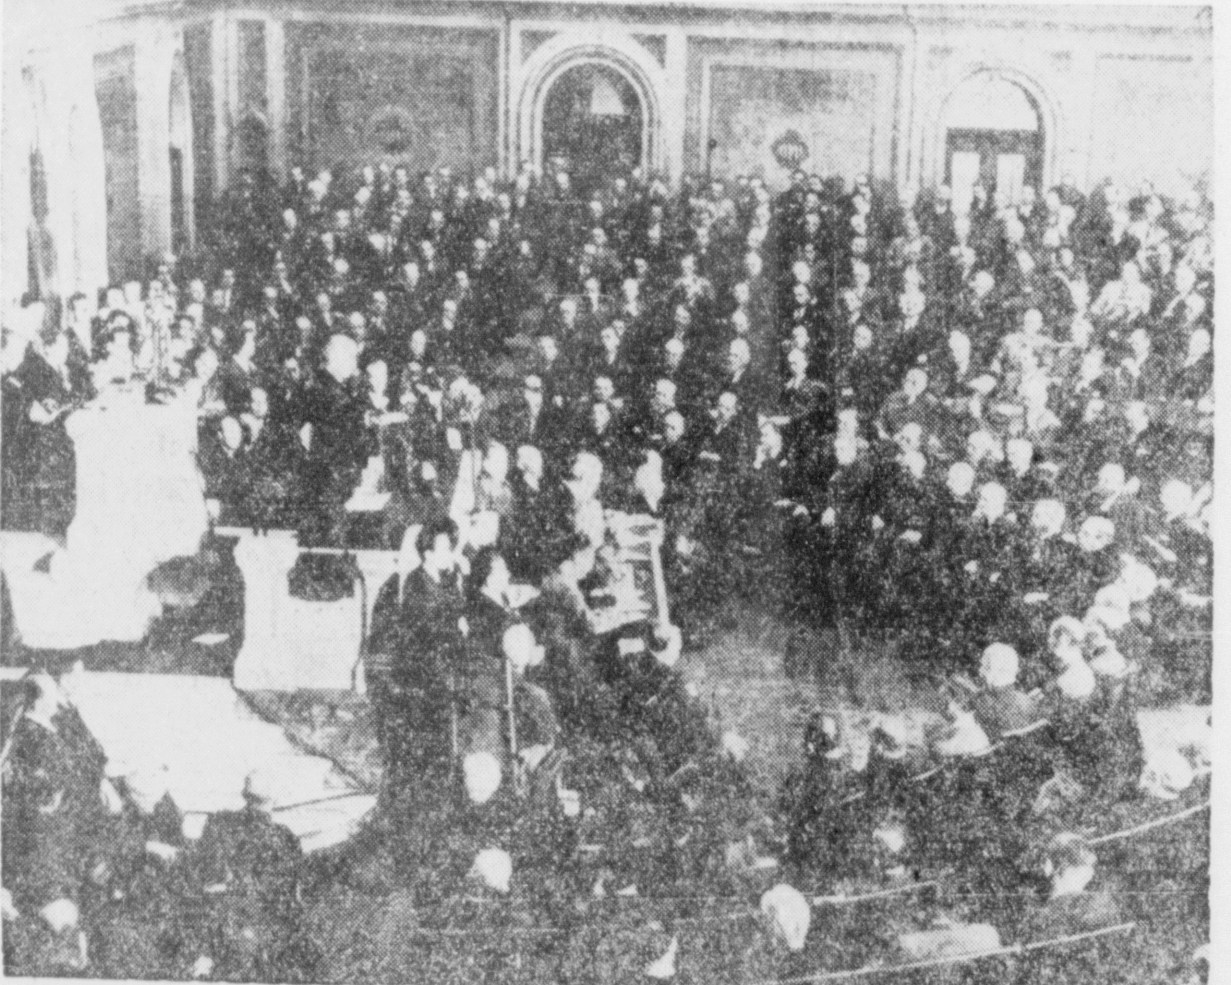

Not even the iron grip of the SS (Elite Guard) can prevent hungry mothers from storming bakeries or bread wagons which are not provided with a military guard.

A month ago Berlin was an apathetic city, a city which, compared with Copenhagen, was like dough not yet in ferment. No machinegun pistols rattled unexpectedly in the streets. No "freedom fighters" tried to accelerate with bombs the inevitable development. There were no great illegal organizations functioning, only weariness and loquacious hopelessness.

Suddenly the situation grew acute a week or so ago. Not only Allied columns with field kitchens can prevent a "mothers' hunger rebellion."

It is certain that the Nazis' last bastions will be defended by desperadoes who will fight to postpone their own doom and will not hesitate to use all means to prolong the struggle a few days or weeks.

Lieut. Maki is flying has twice been awarded the War Department Distinguished Unit citation. Currently it is engaged in cutting off the German stream of supplies to Kesselring's forces by systematic cutting of northern Italy bridges and by sealing off the Brenner pass rail line. So efficient have the 12th Air Force units been at attacking the Brenner line that continuous traffic has been closed in that artery for more than one and a half months. The Braxley attack cut the most important of the three channels of traffic leading into the Brenner route.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

Okinawa (By Navy Radio)—We camped one night on a little hillside that led up to a bluff overlooking a small river. The bluff dropped straight down for a long way. Up there on top of the bluff it was just like a little park.

This bluff was terraced, although it wasn't farmed. The grass on it was soft and green. And those small straight-limbed pine trees were dotted all over it.

Looking down from the bluff the river made a turn and across it was an old stone bridge. At the end of the bridge was a village—or what had been a village.

It was now just a jumble of ashes and sagging thatched roofs from our bombardment. In every direction little valleys led away from the turn in the river. It was as pretty and gentle a sight as you ever saw. It had the softness of antiquity about it and the miniature charm and daintiness that we see in Japanese prints. And the sad, uncanny silence that follows the bedlam of war.

A bright sun made the morning hot and a refreshing little breeze sang through the pine trees. There wasn't a shot nor a warlike sound within hearing. I sat on the bluff for a long time, just looking. It all seemed so quiet and peaceful. I noticed a lot of the Marines sitting and just looking too.

Reminders of America
You could come from a dozen different parts of America and still find scenery on Okinawa that looked like your country at home.

Southern boys say the reddish clay and the pine trees remind them of Georgia. Westerners see California in the green, rolling hills, partly wooded, partly patchworked with little green fields. And the farmed plains look like our Midwest.

Okinawa is one of the few places I've been in this war where our troops don't gripe about what an awful place it is. In fact most of the boys say they would like Okinawa if it weren't at war with us and if the people weren't so dirty.

The countryside itself is neat and the little farms are well kept. So far the Okinawa climate is superb and the vistas undeniably pretty. The worst crosses to bear are the mosquitoes, fleas and the sight of the pathetic people.

Most of the roads on Okinawa are narrow dirt trails for small horse-drawn carts. Then there are several wider gravel roads. One man aptly described it as "an excellent network of poor roads."

Our heavy traffic of course has played hob with the roads. Already they are tire-deep in dust and troops on the road have mask-like faces, caked with dust. Bulldozers and scrapers are at work constantly.

Scared of Snakes
I've mentioned before about our fear of snakes before we got here. All the booklets and literature given us ahead of time about Okinawa dealt at length on snakes. They told us there were three kinds of poisonous adders, all three being fatal. The booklets warned us not to wander off the main roads, not to stop under the trees or snakes would drop on us (as if you could fight a war without getting off the roads!) In some of the troop briefings, they had the Marines more scared of snakes than Japs.

Well, I've kept a close watch and made a lot of inquiries. And the result is that in the central part of Okinawa where we've been there are just practically no snakes at all.

Our troops have walked, poked, sprawled and slept on nearly every square yard of the ground. And in my regiment, for one, they have seen only two snakes.

One was found dead. The other was killed by a battalion surgeon, coiled into a gallon glass jar and sent to the regimental command post as a souvenir. It was a vicious rattler, a type called habu.

Those are the only snakes I've heard of. There was a rumor that in one battalion they have caught and made pets of a couple of snakes, but I don't believe it.

The local people say the island was very snakey up until the middle 30's when they imported some mongooses which killed most of the snakes. But we haven't seen any mongooses so we don't know whether the story is true or not.

Correspondent John Lardner says his only explanation is that St. Patrick came through here once as a tourist and took all the snakes with him.

Mrs. Houston Dies In Hollywood, Calif.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. F. B. Houston of Hollywood, Calif. Mrs. Houston died Monday following quite a long illness. ### Ecuador Prepares New Constitution

Quito (AP)—If Ecuador's new proposed constitution goes through it will be unlawful to punish unsuccessful rebels by imprisoning them in a climate other than that of their homes, and they will have the right to choose their own mode of transportation to prison—train, boat or plane—with the government footing the bill.

The proviso also says that they cannot be sent to jungle districts or islands, and must be allowed to go into exile rather than prison if they want to.

The new charter, under study for eight months, also provides that no one has to pay his own way to court more than three miles from home, establishes a special commission empowered to suspend laws it believes unconstitutional, gives various professional groups congressional representation, and prevents congress itself from excusing creditors of the government from paying or from asking the war department to promote individual officers.

Radios and Refrigerators . . . Tires and Telephones are all in the same boat

Many thousands of people can't get telephones today for the same reason they can't get radios, refrigerators, tires, automobiles. Telephone factories also are busy on war work, and will be for a long time. There just aren't enough telephones to go around.

But the telephone instrument is only part of the problem. More than half of our 100,000 unfilled orders also are held up because of the lack of central office apparatus, cables and wires.

When war does release manpower, materials and manufacturing facilities, we're planning a full-speed program of expansion and improvement costing $120,000,000 in the first five years. But even working at that rapid rate, it will take at least two years to manufacture and install enough equipment so telephones can be furnished generally without delay.

We are sorry if you must wait for a telephone. We will fill your order in its proper turn just as soon as possible.

Capt. Roy Ingalls Weds Army Nurse In Italy, Feb. 7

Somewhere in Italy—The wedding of Second Lt. Millicent C. LaVenia, an Army nurse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaVenia, 482 Van Sicklen street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Capt. Roy M. Ingalls, son of Mrs. Marie Ingalls, 613 North Nineteenth street, has been announced in Italy.

The couple were married in St. Peter's, Vatican City, on Feb. 7, by Rev. Cornelius Cahill, a U. S. Army chaplain who celebrated a nuptial mass in the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Peter's. The bride's attendant was First Lt. Edith Hunter, also an Army nurse. Capt. Robert I. Nash, a friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride elected to be married in her nurse's uniform. After the wedding the couple left for a honeymoon in the Mediterranean theater of operations, after which they returned to duty.

The bride is a graduate of Brooklyn Hospital Nurses Training School, 1938 and was a nurse at Bellevue until Dec. 15, 1942, when she was commissioned. She has been overseas nearly two years.

Capt. Ingalls entered the service in October, 1940, with the National Guard and went to the United Kingdom in July, 1942, as an enlisted man. Following six months' service, he was returned to the United States. He entered officers' candidate school as a sergeant and was commissioned in October of 1942 as a second lieutenant. In August, 1943, he came to the Mediterranean theater of operations and served in North Africa before coming to Italy. At present he is the adjutant of a high AAF headquarters squadron.

Shipman Tells Of Rehabilitation Work At BPW Club Meet

The rehabilitation of handicapped persons as it is being accomplished through the efforts of the State Board of Control for Vocational Education, was outlined by Joseph Shipman to the members of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's Club at their meeting Monday evening at the First Methodist Church. Mr. Shipman is director of the Upper Peninsula office located at Marquette.

Mr. Shipman said that since the agency was established in 1921, nine district offices have been organized which now serve 10,000 handicapped persons. The agency's vocational rehabilitation service is available to any physically or mentally handicapped individual in the state of Michigan who is now disabled in such a way as to be vocationally handicapped. Among the types of service offered to the vocationally handicapped individual is physical restoration, training which is classified as "learning by doing" under an employer, and school and college training.

Under the physical restoration plan, the agency determines if there is any additional medical care which they can offer the handicapped person. Mr. Shipman said, and in some instances through the proper care, his condition can be considerably improved. Included in the various kinds of "on the job" training are limb and brace repair, typewriter repair, welding, watch and clock repair, lens grinding, airplane mechanics, bicycle repair, mechanical dentistry, dress designing, etc.

Mr. Shipman told of the work which is being done in rehabilitating veterans at the Pine Lake Camp in Lower Michigan which is now limited to the rehabilitation of veterans of World War II. There the veteran in need of rehabilitation is given excellent medical and psychiatric care when necessary, and when he is ready for it, vocational training of the type in which he is interested.

JRC Ships 102 Gift Boxes To Children Of Liberated Lands

The Junior Red Cross shipped 102 gift boxes to children in liberated countries yesterday. All Escanaba schools took part in filling the boxes which contained school and health supplies and one small toy. Each package was valued at $2.25 and contained such useful items as pencils, crayons, pens, paper, compass, protractor, blotter, tooth brush and tooth paste, handkerchiefs, washcloth, comb, needle, thread and buttons, a small toy and several cakes of soap. Declarations

"I wish more people in Manistique would realize how vitally important it is for them to file consumer declarations and of placing their orders for supplies for the next twelve months," said John Girvin, of the Girvin Coal and Dock company, while commenting on the new government directive which recently went in force whereby coal users will be limited to 80 per cent of the amount used last year.

"I don't know how we are supposed to handle those cases of people who have moved in the course of the year and switched from fuel oil to hard fuels," said Mr. Girvin, "but I do know that those who have used coal will be entitled to special preferential treatment if they file their declarations, along with specific orders, before May 15. This is not our doing, you understand, but government orders."

The new regulations, Mr. Girvin stated, require dealers to deliver at least 30 per cent of a normal year's supply before October 1 to customers who file their declarations plus their orders between those dates.

The coal in a consumer's bin at the time he files his declaration is so much "velvet," Mr. Girvin stated, since it cannot be counted as a part of the year's allotment. However, no more than 80 per cent of the normal year's supply can be delivered after April 1.

People who have purchased coal the past year from more than one dealer should get declarations from each dealer from whom they dealt.

In Session—Names
Committees

William Davidson was re-elected chairman of the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors at the spring meeting held here Monday and Tuesday. His re-election was by a margin of one, he receiving seven votes to six for William E. Tennyson.

Election of chairman, naming of committees and setting a preliminary budget were the main items of business taken up at the two day session, which came to a close Tuesday afternoon.

The preliminary budget was set at $70,850 which is an increase of $500 over that of last year. This, however, is only a tentative budget, the fixed budget being voted at the fall meeting in October.

The nearest thing to heated discussion arose on Tuesday morning when the board conferred with heads of the county road commission. The matter of supplying the highway department with oil drew some criticism which was finally ironed out. While no official action was taken at the meeting, it is generally understood that hereafter the contract for this item will annually be submitted to bids.

The following committees were named:

Finance Committee: Alfred W. Heitman, Wm. E. Tennyson, Louis Tebo, Bert C. Furst, Lester Richards, Leonard Carley and Agner Dehlin.

Equalization Committee: Leonard Carley, Frank W. Voisine, Agner Dehlin, Frank Conlon and Alfred W. Heitman.

Audit Committee: Frank Conlon, Walter Burns and Louis Tebo.

Alger-Schoolcraft Health Unit: Louis Tebo, Alfred W. Heitman and Agner Dehlin.

County Road Committee: Bert C. Furst, Cecil Johnson, Wm. E. Tennyson, Frank Conlon and Leonard Carley.

Airport Committee: William Rodman, Walter Burns and Cecil Johnson.

Building and Grounds Committee: Agner Dehlin, Bert C. Furst, Frank Voisine, Alfred W. Heitman and Leonard Carley.

Abstract Committee: Cecil Johnson, Frank Conlon and Walter Burns.

Poor and Welfare Committee: Walter Burns, Frank Conlon, Frank W. Voisine, William Rodman and Cecil Johnson.

Conservation Committee: Frank W. Voisine, Louis Tebo and Bert C. Furst.

PHIL RICHEL
IS WOUNDEDHe And Another Capture
Group Of 28 German
Officers

Sgt. Philip J. Richel Jr., of the 23rd Armored Infantry Battalion, was wounded in action early in April, according to a V-mail letter received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Richel, 374 North Eleventh street, city.

Official notice from the War Department has not been received as yet.

The letter was dated April 6 and as the Richels had a letter written on April 1 at which time he was in perfect health the youth's wounding came sometime between the 1st and the 6th. He had been in Germany.

In his V-mail letter he states, casually, "Oh, yes, if you get a telegram from the War Department, don't worry as its only to tell you I've been slightly wounded. I hope this reaches you before the telegram so you won't get a scare."

In his letter of April 1, Sgt. Richel states "I'm someplace in Germany and where I am is a military secret. The other day I got two pistols. One was a German Luger and the other was a Belgian make and a .32 caliber. The German Luger was a .38 caliber. Boy, I really hope I get the opportunity to take them home with me."

"I got them off German officers I captured. Myself and Sgt. Christian captured 28 German officers and we could have had all the pistols we wanted. I got a swell wrist watch but somehow I broke the stem. So if I don't get the opportunity to get it fixed, I'll send it home. You know the Jerries call themselves supermen. I'd sure like to know where they got that."

"The things I've seen in the last two weeks or so will sure be worth telling when I get home. I really laughed when we took one town. A fellow got into some oldtime costumes — George Washington's days — he had on a wig and all that and came out. We sure laughed."

Arrest Three With Walleyed Pike;
River Patrol Again Established

Joel Gustafson and Walter Gustafson of Gwin and Gorman Hedstrom of Princeton, stood mute when arraigned in the court of Justice of Peace Oliver C. Estenson on a charge of illegal possession of wall-eyed pike and trial in the cases was set for Wednesday, April 25. The men are being represented by Atty. Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee.

Bond was set at $100 in each instance and was furnished by John Berg of Route 1, Rapid River.

The men were arrested Sunday morning by Conservation Officers Alton Tweedy and Keith Johnson of Rapid River as they came from the Berg farm. Seventeen wall-eyed pike or pike-perch were found in the trunk compartment of the auto in which the men were riding.

Counsel for the defendants attempted to arrange a compromise settlement, offering to plead one of the trio guilty and pay a triple fine, but this offer was rejected, it was reported by one of the conservation officers.

Determined to stamp out the illegal taking of wall-eyed pike during the spawning season, the Michigan Conservation Department has again this spring established a camp on the Whitefish River and is conducting a 24-hour patrol of the river.

The intent of the department primarily is to stop the taking of fish, thus conserving them in that they have a chance to spawn, not the arrest of violators.

Conservation officers from all parts of the peninsula are being called in at times to serve on the patrol.

At the present there are officers from Hermansville, Menominee, Nahma, Rapid River and district headquarters on the patrol.

Cubs Humble Cards In Opener, 3-2; Champ Browns Master Tigers, 7-1

SINGLE SETTLES AIRTIGHT SCRAP

Paul Derringer Comes Through With Star Pitching Chore

Chicago, April 17. (P)—The Chicago Cubs needed only four hits and a brilliant pitching chore by 36-year-old Paul Derringer to humble the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, today in an airtight season opener that was settled by Don Johnson's ninth-inning single.

A crowd of 11,788 braved chilly winds to see Derringer scatter seven Cardinal hits and nullify the brilliant mound efforts of Ted Wilks, who yielded three hits before he gave way for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, and reliever Bud Byerly, who held the Cubs hitless until Johnson's game-winning single.

Two of the Cubs three markers were scored by Bill Nicholson, league home-run champion in 1944 who belted a circuit wallop his first time up and scored the winning tally after walking to open the ninth.

The Cards twice came from behind to tie the score at 1-1 and 2-2 and in the eighth seemed to have solved the smooth-working Derringer. In that inning, rookie Red Schoendienst slammed a triple against the right field wall and Walker Cooper belted his second single to knock the count.

However, Derringer retired the Cards in order in the ninth and then the Cubs got to work for their winning tally.

Score by innings:

St. Louis ..... 000 100 010—2 7 1
Chicago ..... 010 100 001—3 4 0
Wilks, Byerly and W. Cooper; Derringer and Livingston.

GIANTS ARE SLUGGERS

Boston, April 17. (P)—Four Boston pitchers were combed for 15 hits by the New York Giants today as Mel Ott set six records by starting his twentieth season with the same club, driving in his 1,778th run, scoring three times to set a lifetime total to 1,787, boosting his total to 1,631 and smashing his 1,026th long hit and picking up his 2,076th extra base on a long hit.

Score by innings:

New York ..... 104 200 004—11 15 1
Boston ..... 011 000 004—6 12 0
Voiselle, Adams and Lombardi; Javery, Hutchings, Earley, Cozart and Masi.

Cincinnati, April 17. ## Pinch Pitcher Strong Man In Yankee's Camp

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Atlantic City.—Joe McCarthy has infield and outfield problems, of course, but 27 years of managing have taught the manager of the Yankees that no one he is seeking is any more important than what he calls a pinch pitcher.

That is something in the way of a new baseball term, and the builder of champions employs it to differentiate from the garden variety of relief work.

"A relief pitcher is sent in when a starter is knocked out in an early inning or when a game is apparently lost," explains McCarthy. "A pinch pitcher goes in and saves a game."

Had pinch pitcher Johnny Murphy been on the roster last season, McCarthy believes the New Yorks would have bagged their fourth consecutive pennant.

Fireman Murphy had the requirements for pulling a starting pitcher out of a hole in the eighth or ninth, holding a slender lead. The Fordham alumnus possessed a good curve, control, nerve. The Irishman was a fifth infielder.

He developed the knack of taking alarming situations in stride, kept the ball low, forced batters to hit it on the ground, frequently into double plays, when any kind of a fly spelled the tying run.

Championships are rarely won without what McCarthy calls a competent pinch pitcher.

Burleigh Grimes, Flint Rhem, Wild Bill Hallahan, Jess Haines, Paul Derringer and Sylvester Johnson were the starters when the Cardinals held sway in 1930-31, but Branch Rickey called Jim Lindsey the most valuable member of the staff. Trouble shooter Lindsey saved 20 or 25 games in each campaign.

Wiley Moore sank his sinker in tight spots for the Yanks in 1927. Dolph Laque was in the sere and yellow of his career when he pinch-pitched so magnificently for the Giants. It was the calloused Cuban who marched front and in the fifth and scored three ahead of him. The Bucs tied it up with four runs in the seventh. The game ended with his single to center.

Score by innings:

Pittsburgh 100 010 400 00—6 11 0
Cincinnati 000 060 000 01—7 9 1
Ostermuller, Desigino, Sewell and Lopez; Walters, Lisenbee and Just.

DOGGERS 8, PHILS 2

Brooklyn, April 17. (P)—Veteran Curt Davis and rookie Mike Sandlock teamed up to give the Brooklyn Dodgers an 8-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in today's season opener before 9,865 fans.

The 48-year-old hurler scattered eight hits harmlessly and highlighted a four-run fifth inning by starting his twentieth season with the same club, driving in his 1,778th run, scoring three times to set a lifetime total to 1,787, boosting his total to 1,631 and smashing his 1,026th long hit and picking up his 2,076th extra base on a long hit.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with a feeling of sincere gratitude that we take this means of expressing our deep appreciation and thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness shown us in our time of bereavement, the sudden death of our beloved wife, daughter and sister, Mrs. Arnold Faulkner. We are very grateful to Rev. James G. Ward for his comforting words, to those who sent floral bouquets, to those who donated the use of their cars, to those who served as pallbearers and to all others who aided us in so many ways.
 Your kindness will always be held in grateful remembrance.
 Signed:
 ARNOLD FAULKNER,
 MR. AND MRS. ROBERT DEWAR,
 BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Anna Jones, who passed away three years ago today, April 18, 1942.
 We have only your memory, dear mother,
 To remember our whole lives through.
 But the sweetness will linger forever,
 As we treasure the image of you.

Grated raw carrots, diced apples and chopped green peppers are good combined with cabbage slaw.

Tender spinach leaves make a select salad. Wash, chill and toss in French dressing. Hard cooked eggs are a good addition.

Unwrap meat as soon as it comes from the market. Wipe it off and place in the cold part of the refrigerator. It may be stored in a dish with a loose-fitting cover.

Three tablespoons of cocoa plus a teaspoon of cooking fat can be substituted in most recipes that call for a two-ounce square of chocolate.

BATH HOUSE ON APPROVED LIST

City's First Postwar Project Plan Gets State Okay

Escanaba's first postwar project plan to be approved and completely processed through the state planning commission is plans for the construction of a bath house at Ludington Beach Park, it was announced yesterday by City Manager A. V. Aronson.

The state planning commission has approved the project plans and will reimburse the city for 50 per cent of the planning cost. Aronson has been advised. In all projects approved by the commission the one-half of the planning cost will be paid by the state. Escanaba has submitted several other proposed projects but the bath house was the first to receive final action.

The bath house as proposed in the plans submitted to the state will be 170 feet long and 80 feet wide at the widest point. Its exterior will be constructed of stone similar to that used in facing the arch bridge at the park, and some timber also will be used.

Cost of the bath house project is estimated at $80,000. The city has no definite plans for financing the construction, but is hopeful that federal aid may be forthcoming in the postwar years.

From Lansing yesterday the Associated Press reported that the state administrative board has approved a plan to expedite state payments to local units of government for plans for postwar projects.

Under the new plan, payments from the state's $5,000,000 postwar planning fund will be made to the communities as plans progress, instead of waiting until all plans are completed before the state provides the money on a matching basis.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the board of state auditors, said the present state policy of withholding payment was working a hardship on financially-embarassed communities.

A. It is a very poor conductor and a good non-conductor.

Q. What causes eclipses?

A. During the earth's revolution around the sun, and the moon's around the earth, there are times when the three bodies are in a line and either the earth is in the moon's shadow or the moon is in that of the earth. In these circumstances an eclipse occurs. If the moon is between the sun and earth it is a solar eclipse, and if the earth is between the sun and moon, it is a lunar eclipse.

Need For Nurses Continues Great

The need for nurses for the military service is increasing and it is estimated that 60,000 will be required by June 1, with little benefit from the proposed drafting of nurses expected for many weeks if not months, according to the nurse recruitment service of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross nursing service has been requested by the Army and Navy, following a meeting earlier this month with the Red Cross in Washington, to accelerate its efforts in recruiting every available nurse for military service. These nurses will be interviewed and urged to enlist now. No nurses in essential positions will be interviewed.

A meeting of all key recruitment nurses was held in Marquette April 11 to complete plans and give out instructions. Mrs. Alma Christensen from Delta county attended the meeting and is prepared to give interviews in this county.

It was reported by Mrs. Christensen that there are three nurses in this county available for military service and not holding essential positions and potentially qualified for military service. In a second group there are two nurses who are married but childless. Nurses who have not been classified because they have not returned their application for classification to the local procurement and assignment service, are asked by Mrs. Christensen to return them at once.
